BOLESH TRAPS FOR AUTOISTS

Automobile traps have been abandoned as a result of the decision of the Supreme court that there is no trap in this State. But that does not mean that a man may not be arrested for the reckless driving of a machine. It will be possible in the future as never before to trap a "reckless" motorist.

A man may be going at the rate of five miles an hour in a congested section and he may be considered reckless, while he may be going at twenty-five miles an hour in the country where there is no danger to any one except himself and not be liable to arrest.

The driver of a machine will have to depend largely upon his own judgment as to whether he is going at a reasonable rate of speed or not. Here are the opinions of some of the police officers of Boston on the new law.

Opinions of Police Heads.
Detective A. M. H. chief of police in Boston, said today: "We have very few traps in Boston, and now there will be no need of any. An auto driver can go as fast as he likes and not be arrested for reckless driving. The driver can go as fast as he likes and not be arrested for reckless driving. The driver can go as fast as he likes and not be arrested for reckless driving."

William T. Leggett, chief of police in Boston, said: "What the Supreme court says goes. I'm to the effect with the traps. There'll be no more of them in Boston. Where the road is clear the auto can run as fast as it pleases. We'll look out things that obstruct streets are not traveled and that no drunken drivers are on the job."

David A. Bates, chief of police in Boston, said: "We have no more traps in town, and all that auto drivers now need to do will be to exercise due caution. We will not relax our vigilance on drunken drivers."

MURRAY PRESIDES OVER THE HOUSE
WASHINGTON, May 19.—During the debate on the statehood bill, the House yesterday Speaker Charles D. Murray presided. Representative Murray to provide the appearance of the "Holy Ghost" in the Speaker's seat next week, he had applied from the Democratic side.

Jesse Pomeroy's Letters to His Mother

THE letters which Jesse Pomeroy, the Charlestown life convict, has written to his mother from his solitary cell, are of real intrinsic interest, quite aside from the history of the man's crime.

These letters reveal more clearly than probably any other letters written in a prison what a man thinks and what he may accomplish while shut away from the world with no reasonable hope of escape.

As it happens, Pomeroy is better qualified to write about prison life from the standpoint of a convict, because of his great literary and linguistic ability, than any other prisoner who ever described that phase of life.

The one thing that stands out beyond everything else is the education that an imprisoned person may obtain unaided by a teacher, if the proper books are available and the student has the will to apply himself. The personality of Pomeroy himself need not be considered in finding deep interest and much instruction in his letters, the first installment of which will be printed exclusively in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

QUIMBY GIRL SOON AT HOME

The return of Gertrude Quimby, the fifteen-year-old girl who was kidnapped from her home in Andover, Mass., last week, was reported today by a letter from her mother, Mrs. Quimby, who said that the girl had been found in the city of New York.

When the girl was kidnapped, she was taken to the city of New York, where she was found by a man who offered her a large sum of money to go with him. She was taken to a hotel, where she was kept for several days.

When the girl was found, she was taken to her home in Andover, where she was reunited with her mother. She was found in the city of New York, where she was kept for several days.

After Typhoid and Malaria

MR. C. J. SWANSON. "Twenty years ago I was taken sick with typhoid and malaria fever, and for a time was at the point of death. As soon as I turned a little toward the better my physician prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it was just what I needed to build me up. I have also found it excellent for weak lungs and rheumatism. I am near the age of seventy, and will always continue to use it."—C. J. Swanson, 5140 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

not only serves to keep the body healthy at the highest notch of excellence, but in typhoid and malaria, especially, when the bodily functions are at their lowest ebb and death seems imminent, it is retained in the stomach when other agents are rejected, and as a food and stimulant sustains life until the crisis is passed. While convalescing after fever it is the greatest strength-giver and body builder known to science. It is a wonderful remedy in the prevention and cure of all lung, throat and stomach troubles, and all wasting and weakening conditions.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct $1.00 a large bottle, the Duffy Pure Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

PLOT IS ON TO KILL MADERO

EL PASO, Tex., May 18.—Two members of General Madero's provisional cabinet today received only slight notice from different sources in Mexico City declaring that a plot is on foot to wreck the train on which Madero will go south in a few days. They allege that three Mexican Senators and two Congressmen in the Mexican Congress are involved.

A new factor of startling importance was thrown into the already complicated Mexican situation today, when the report came from American sources that General Madero would not accept Madero as his official position. Three thousand miles away from the United States, Madero is said to have been told by a representative of the United States government that he should not accept the position of President of Mexico, but that he should accept the position of Governor of Coahuila de Zaragoza, which would allow him to remain in Mexico and to be close to the aid of the United States government.

GUSTAV MAHLER CAMMORIST DIES AT VIENNA NAMES SLAYER

VIENNA, May 18.—Gustav Mahler, the composer and conductor, is dead here. He had been under the care of specialists in France for months and returned to Vienna about a week ago. His death was announced Wednesday that his condition was practically hopeless. Mr. Mahler's ailment was cardiac pectoris, which became complicated by blood poisoning. Gustav Mahler was for many years director of the Vienna Imperial Opera, being appointed in 1897. For a short time in 1900 he was musical director in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and later he directed the concerts of the New York Philharmonic for two years. He was born in 1860 in Bohemia, took a scientific course at the University of Vienna and studied at the Conservatory of Music. He made his first appearance as a conductor at Casell, and later succeeded Anton Seidl at Prague.

VITERBO, Italy, May 19.—Giacomo Accornero, the Cammoris, has succeeded here. Accornero, the betrayer, in the accusations for a time. Today he took the stand to be faced by Tommaso de Angelis. Accornero had made oath that the Cammoris and Giacomo Accornero did the Cammoris murder. In support of this charge he today described a wound upon de Angelis's forehead which he swore was inflicted by the Cammoris. Accornero was defending himself.

Several medical experts summoned by President Placido of the Anzio Court from the University of Naples were in court and were called upon to examine the wound upon de Angelis's leg and were asked whether or not it had been made with a knife, a sword or a bullet.

RECIPROCITY ENEMIES ORGANIZED; PLAN TO KILL BILL WITH AMENDMENTS

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—If the friends of Canadian reciprocity and similar legislation expect anything from the extra session of the fifty-second congress, they had best look to their heels with the forces of public opinion, which influence Senators and their voters.

The forwarding of danger through delay and amendment has already been used out in the open in the Senate, which called the Congress together.

A few days ago, it was stated from administration circles that reciprocity, having unopposedly and overwhelmingly carried the Democratic House, had upon carried a majority of fifteen in the Republican Senate.

A few days later an estimate made by the Democratic advocates of the measure showed that thirty-three Democrats and seventeen Republicans would vote for reciprocity when it came to a ballot.

A more accurate poll, taken by the American Textile Institute, indicates a certain majority of only five senators.

The majority for reciprocity is clear and definite. If it ever comes to a vote in the Senate. But there's the question: Will the past as it is, be cited upon by the present session of the upper chamber?

Enemies Are Organized.

There is a well founded and not generally recognized rumor that the enemies of the measure are organized and determined to fight it to death.

The friends of reciprocity in the senate are lukewarm and halfhearted. There is no particular and great interest which carries the fortunes of the bill in the Senate.

There is not an enthusiastic behind it. The bill is in no better hands. It will be reported absolutely without recommendation of the Finance Committee, and will go before the open Senate upon its merits.

Those who oppose reciprocity are much more ardent and determined. They have resolved to fight hard, regardless of the cost, and to bring down the measure.

They are giving the proposition a better hearing than it has ever had in the Senate. They are making a serious effort to bring the traditional Republican doctrine of protection and the old protection of the tariff into the foreground.

My Trip To New York

With the Buyer of Men's Clothing

Last week, put into our hands three splendid lots of men's suits, from three different manufacturers, at prices far below what these garments were made to sell for even at wholesale. In addition to this, I have cut into the prices of several lots of my regular stock and have made still lower prices, on what I consider the lowest prices to be found in Boston on equal qualities of garments.

As a result we have had "some rush" here ever since and today and tomorrow we expect to do a bigger business than ever. Our store is very easy to reach—right on the direct line of the subway and tunnel cars—and surface cars for every point of the compass pass in front or within a step of our doors.

CRANE SAVES THE PIE BELT

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Wilson's dinner party at the White House, which was the first of the season, was a success. The president, who was the guest of honor, was seated at the head of the table. The guests included the members of the cabinet, the members of the Supreme Court, and the members of the House of Representatives. The dinner was a very pleasant one, and the president was in excellent spirits.

The manager of the new Senate restaurant, who, of course, did not come from New England, ordered that pie was not to be served in the restaurant. This was a blow to the members of the Senate, who were accustomed to having pie served at their dinners. The manager, however, was not to be deterred. He ordered that the pie be served in the kitchen, and the members of the Senate were to be served with pie in the kitchen. This was a very clever move, and the members of the Senate were very pleased with it.

The manager was called "upon the carpet" by the members of the Senate. They were very angry with him, and they threatened to have him removed from his position. The manager, however, was not to be deterred. He ordered that the pie be served in the kitchen, and the members of the Senate were to be served with pie in the kitchen. This was a very clever move, and the members of the Senate were very pleased with it.

The new trade league dinner to-morrow. The annual dinner of the American Trade League will be held at the American Hotel to-morrow evening. Of late, Cuba has yielded an unusually small amount of the mild, aromatic tobacco which is up to our standard of selection. Being forewarned, we bought early and secured more than our share of this particularly fine leaf.

As a result, we know that our cigar is as perfect as it can be made, and the response of the smoking public is very gratifying.

HARVARD PLAYS PRINCETON NINE

By E. V. B. PARKE

Princeton, N. J., May 15.—With an eye on the coming world cup on Cape Cod, the Princeton nine, in the first of a series of matches between Princeton and Harvard, took one of the greatest college water events of the year, the nine of the different crews took things easy to day so as to be in the best of shape to-morrow, when the events are decided.

The next will mark the beginning of a new racing season for Princeton. In the second, Yale, expected against Princeton, on the water, but the latter had to forsake the water. The third and so on will follow.

The Princeton nine, however, allowed the Princeton men again to follow the sport and, for the first time in thirty years, they will have Yale as the opponent to-morrow.

The most interest in the race of the Princeton nine is that it is the first since the war. The Princeton nine, however, allowed the Princeton men again to follow the sport and, for the first time in thirty years, they will have Yale as the opponent to-morrow.

JASPER OUT IN GALLANT FIGHT

LOWELL, May 19.—At the meeting of Lowell A. C., in Matthews Hall, John T. Lant of Chelsea was elected Vice. Jasper Lant in the ninth round. He was thrown to be a twelve. Jasper Lant in the ninth round was very careless in his boxing, and as a result he was punished.

Jasper was knocked through the ropes twice in the tenth round, and he was saved from a decision against him that time. He rallied and in the first round made a fine showing against Gallen. In the eighth and ninth rounds Gallen

AWFUL BACKACHE

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have died of a dream of and wrinkling sensations I could hardly bear. I had soreness in each side could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have the backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. M. A. B.

think my testimony will help others who may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache do not neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

The testimonials which are constantly being published in these advertisements are guaranteed to be absolutely genuine.

That Great Big Word UNREASONABLE
The Writing of That Word Into a Law by the Supreme Court of the United States Magnifies the Court's Powers by About One Thousand

The Congress of the United States, Senators and Representatives elected by the people to make laws, put on the statute books many years ago a law known as the Sherman act forbidding corporations or others to make "combinations in restraint of trade."
The law has been asleep for a long time, or, at least, doing.
The other day, with much noise and excitement, there came a decision from the Supreme Court based on that law.
The decision concerns the Standard Oil and a suit for its dissolution brought by the government of the United States.
The highest court in the land, handing down its decision, solemnly tells the Standard Oil Company that it must dissolve and reorganize "within six months."
This decision has been discussed in every business office, every broker's office and in nearly every home in the United States.
Some of the conservatives say that it is too radical, and some of the radicals say that it is too conservative.
Victor Berger, of Milwaukee, who constitutes an entire party all by himself under the dome of the Capitol at Washington, says quite pointedly that the Supreme Court might as well tell the Atlantic Ocean to go and dissolve within six months.
The average conservative business man on second thought is inclined to feel rather happy about the Supreme Court decision—especially if he owns Standard Oil stock or stocks in other big corporations. And the average sensible man knows that the court could not eat the Oil Trust or confiscate its property.

But there is one thing in the decision more important than the individual decision itself, more important than Standard Oil. THAT IS THE INTRODUCTION INTO THE COURT'S DECISION OF ONE SINGLE WORD, unreasonable, A WORD THAT INCREASES AND EXTENDS THE POWER OF THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT TREMENDOUSLY.
The court is not content with saying when it tells the Standard Oil to reorganize and that it must behave, that the Standard Oil has violated the law by a combination in restraint of trade.
The Supreme Court decision says that the Standard Oil must be reorganized, because its combinations and conspiracies in restraint of trade have been UNREASONABLE.

There is a new word and a most important one.
The Congress of the United States when it passed the law said nothing about reasonable or unreasonable. It said that corporations and individuals and monopolies must NOT combine in RESTRAINT OF TRADE.
It did not say that they could restrain trade a LITTLE; it did not say that they might restrain trade reasonably, but not unreasonably.
The Supreme Court, supposed to declare laws unconstitutional and throw the laws out of the law books, or to decide upon cases in strict accordance to the laws, now puts the word unreasonable into this law. Therefore, in fact, it REWRITES the law, and gives to the Supreme Court of the United States not only the judicial, BUT THE LAW-MAKING POWER.

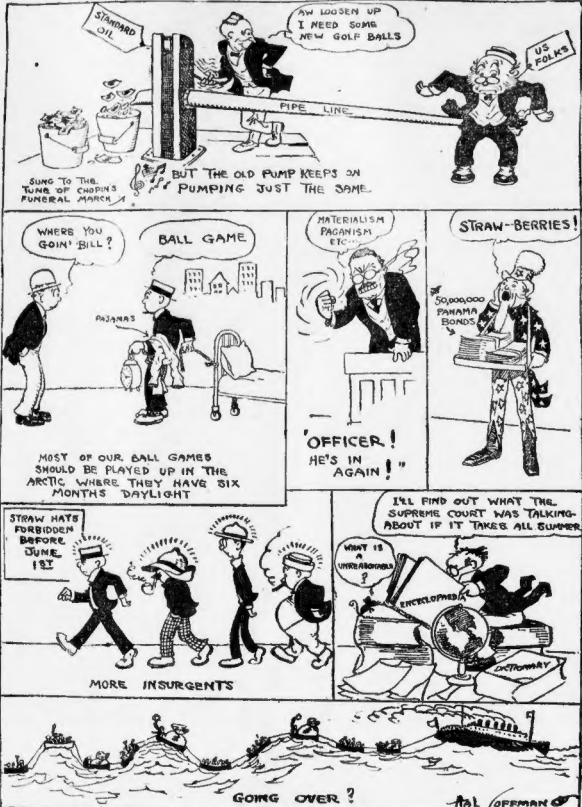

The Constitution of the United States says, as you remember, that no punishment shall be inflicted which is cruel or unusual.
According to this latest decision, if some State should pass a law condemning criminals to die by starvation, and if appeal cases were made on the ground that this was cruel and unusual, the Supreme Court could uphold the punishment, in the light of its recent decision, by saying that it was not UNREASONABLY cruel or unusual.
In an extremely popular comic opera called "The Pink Lady," a gentle girl dressed in pink is shocked to hear that a young man is to be shot. But she consoles herself by singing to the would-be shooters, "Shoot Him Gently, Oh, So Gently."

The young lady in pink who thinks that it is too bad to shoot somebody, but not so very bad if you "shoot him gently," reminds us—be it said with all and most profound respect—of the Supreme Court which says substantially of the small deer, "Shoot him gently, oh, so gently."
In its important decision it says to the monopolies, "If you MUST restrain trade, restrain it reasonably, oh, so reasonably."
The people thought that they had a law which said that men MUST not combine to restrain trade. That leather merchants must not get together and form a combination that would restrain the business and the possibilities of the little man outside of the combination, and that the same was true of oil merchants, iron men, etc.

But the Supreme Court now tells us that there is reason in all things, in restraint of trade among others; that the Standard Oil is ordered to dissolve only because it has been "unreasonable" in its attitude toward others.
Hereafter big corporations and monopolies will plead not that they have failed to restrain trade, but that they have restrained it reasonably. When they find out what the Supreme Court considers reasonable they will be able to go ahead happily, and the famous Sherman act will be more of a joke than ever.

That is a good thing for the citizens to remember. The Supreme Court, appointed for life by an individual, the President, has said to the law-makers whom the people elect: "You may pass laws forbidding a certain thing, but if we believe that the person who disobeys your laws has not done so 'UNREASONABLY' we will not interfere with him or enforce your law."
This we say regardless of the question whether it is a good or a bad thing to interfere with the conduct of business on a big scale and with business combinations, which, when they are big enough, must necessarily restrain the business of others—since the man who is big enough is able to kill his competitor by cheaper methods and greater power without any definite combination to that end.
It is mighty interesting when an appointed Supreme Court reads into a decision one word that in reckless hands would make all law-making a joke.

Is no more potent Language to convey Enduring Truth to stir the Soul of man
Than these vague symbols, that are loing expire?

There is one Word of import written There.

Americans Who Stultify
Their Country Abroad

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

If you are preparing for a trip abroad, make up your mind that, to some extent, when you are in Rome you will be so the Romans do; that you will be expected to give your national individuality and allow some of the people you meet to remain in ignorance of the fact that you are a typical American, especially if they show no interest in the matter one way or the other.
Of all countries on earth, America seems the most determined to force its own characteristics upon the residents of other lands. The Frenchman, the Englishman, the German, the Spaniard, will mingle with foreign crowds, and dwell in foreign hotels, and be satisfied to have people guess at his nationality.
Not so the American.
He must make himself known. He must wear an American flag in his lapel, or plant one in the front of his motor car, or say or do something to call attention to the fact that he came from "the land of the free and the home of the brave."
These middle-aged and decidedly unattractive women took chairs sets in the center of a crowded dining room in a large hotel in Italy. There had the polite waiter presented them with menu cards when one of the women proceeded to draw an American flag, something over a foot in size, from a parcel, and plant it in the center of the banquet or the table. Audible sniffs went the rounds of the dining room.
The Americans were observed, but they were not admired.
"Hello, Prince," was the way these Girls Greeted Him
Here is a story told by one who heard a certain prince of royal blood was driving through the streets of a famous watering place in Europe. Thousands of eyes had gathered at each side of the avenue to see him pass, his advent having been heralded.
Among others stood a beautiful American girl, in company with her father and sister. All three were looking in more or less witty sarcasm regarding the tendency of all Europeans to fall prostrate at the feet of royalty. As the royal prince approached, there was a great fluttering of femininity, and murmuring jaws were hushed from bowed heads; but the American girl, to prove her independent spirit and her lack of awe on the occasion, raised her parasol high above her head, and in an unmistakable, high pitched American voice called out, "Hello, Prince." She did not realize that her act was not tasteful. It is quite true that foreigners come to America full of earping criticism and dislike in disagreeable fault-finding; but they are less offensive in their manner of
